Representatives of the National Archives have forwarded certain documents from their World War II, War Crimes Records, for review for possible declassification, in connection with a proposed microfilm publication of all documents in the Nuremberg series.

The two attached documents are from this series. They are of OSS origin. One is a transmittal letter and the other consists of an interrogation report dealing with conditions in German prisons during World War II. In the past we have declassified similar interrogation reports, which were of strictly Army origin.

Request that subject documents be reviewed to determine if they can now be declassified from your agency's standpoint.

Sincerely,

Kenneth G. Wickham
